Regents Center for Learning Disorders (RCLD)

Anna Marie Reich, Liaison
Georgia Southern University

WHO WE ARE

- The Regents Center for Learning Disorders (RCLD) at Georgia Southern University is one of three Centers established by the University System of Georgia (USG) Board of Regents to provide assessments, resources, and conduct research related to students with learning disorders and other disorders that may impact academic functioning. We have centers at the University of Georgia, Georgia State University, and Georgia Southern University.

WHAT WE OFFER

- Comprehensive Assessments
- Standardized evaluations to identify each student's strengths and weaknesses.
- Assessment for a broad range of potentially disabling conditions.
- Development of recommendations and accommodations to support learning success.

WHAT WE OFFER

- Consultation, Training, and Research
- Policy and program support through consultative services, workshops, and training for each school's Office of Disability Services.
- Research and clinical training providing a unique environment where Georgia Southern graduate students in psychology and related fields gain practical experience.

WHO IS ELIGIBLE?

- Students admitted and/or enrolled in any public college or university in the University System of Georgia.
- If interested in an evaluation, contact your school's Office of Disability Services or reach out to the RCLD directly for guidance.

SCHEDULING AN EVALUATION

- Contact your college or university's disability services office to request a referral. They will provide you with our paperwork to complete and return to them.
- Complete the required paperwork packet before being scheduled for an evaluation.
- A comprehensive evaluation costs $500. Students can pay by providing credit card payment or check payment through a secure, electronic link that your scheduler will provide. We accept payments from schools, VR, etc.
